

Academic Vitae: Andreas G. Klein, Dr. phil.nat.

Jan 1995	– Diploma in Mathematics (with first-class honors) at Goethe-University Frankfurt, Germany.
Feb. 1995 – Aug. 2000	– Research Associate at Goethe-University Frankfurt, Germany, Dept. of Psychology
Jun. 1999 – Sept. 1999	– Gustav Lienert Research Scholarship in Biopsychological Methods, Visiting Scholarship at University of California, Los Angeles (UCLA), Dept. of Psychology.
Sept. 1999	– Young Investigator Award (1 st Prize) of the German Psychological Society, Methodology Section.
June 2000	– Dissertation in Psychological Methods at Goethe-University, Frankfurt, Germany. Title: „Moderator models – Methods for the Analysis of Interaction Effects in Structural Equation Models“ (summa cum laude).
Sept. 2000 – Aug 2002	– Assistant Researcher and Lecturer at University of California, Los Angeles (UCLA), Graduate School of Education & Information Studies, Social Research Methodology. – Research in Structural Equation Modeling, Growth Curve Modeling, and Applications to Prevention Science and Psychology (with Bengt O. Muthen).
Aug 2002 - now	– Assistant Professor, University of Illinois at Urbana-Champaign, Dept. of Educational Psychology, Division of Quantitative and Evaluative Research Methodologies