

Topical Table of Contents

What It Does For You: While the main arrangement of entries in the whole encyclopedia is alphabetical by entry title, this “Topical Table of Contents” groups together similar or related encyclopedia entries in categories, in order to make it easier to find clusters of entries of interest on a subject. The “Overview” below brings together the main headings and sub-headings that are used to group related topics in the entire Topical Table of Contents. The labeled sections following the overview, beginning with “Topics,” contain the full topical contents list, providing titles, authors, and page numbers of each entry. (For an alphabetical list of topics by title, see the end papers or p. xlv)

After the information for each entry, “See also” references point to related topics that might also be of interest—some to whole categories (“See also Topical Category 8: People Using Cultural Resources”) and some to individual entries (“See also Special Libraries...”). “See” references lead from a likely, but unused, title for a topic to the title that is actually used for the topic (“Filtering Software See Internet Filtering Software...”).
