MEMORANDUM

UCLA

Office of Instructional Development
CCLE Development Office

June 1, 2022

To: All UCLA Faculty, Adjunct Faculty, Lecturers, and Administrative Staff

Re: Expected Use of Updated CCLE Mobile

We have released the 2022 version of UCLA revamped Moodle, code-named CCLE Mobile. We hope that the new version of CCLE will be the most collaborative, functional, and cost saving tool that was ever released on a CCLE platform. Through some beta testing of the new CCLE software, we have discovered a few problems. In order to keep launch date of the CCLE Mobile platform as Fall quarter 2022, we have made some small corrections in order remedy these problems. This will allow our instructors to capture student behavior and usage through instructor tools and new interfaces. The data will be important tool for our staff to monitor trends in the academic environment.

Original CCLE Mobile Platform

| Intended purpose: collaboration, highly functional, cost saving tool | Created several modules to carry out these functions | All students would read material |

⬇

Students Are Using the System for Unintended Purposes

| Plagiarism | Students are not reading and are unprepared for class | System is too "collaborative" |

⬇

Devalued a Bachelor's Degree

| One year Bachelor's degree has created a flood of students with higher ed degrees | For example, graduating Psychology student do not know who Freud was |

⬇

CCLE Mobile Update

| New Instructor Mode | Class Ranking System | New Class Discussion Interface |

⬇

Improved Students

| Straight As and 4.0 GPAs | Continuous Data Monitoring and Periodic CCLE Mobile Updates |